Situation Report # 71
Thursday, July 08, 2010 at 1200 hrs EDT

David Halstead
State Coordinating Officer

Weather Summary:

- The tropical wave in the western Gulf of Mexico formed into Tropical Depression #2 late Wednesday night. There is a chance that T.D. #2 could become Tropical Storm Bonnie just before making landfall near the Texas/Mexico border later today.
- Southerly swells from Tropical Depression Two will decrease today, but wave heights of 2-4 feet will persist along the Panhandle coast, with offshore wave heights of 6-8 feet possible. Wind speeds will decrease and weather conditions will continue to improve. Heat index values may reach between 99 and 103 degrees at the coast both Thursday and Friday. Winds will shift to a west and southwest direction today and persist at around 5-10 knots through the weekend. Offshore, no oil has been observed within or moving towards Eddy Franklin and there is no clear path for oil to enter the Florida Straits.

Current Situation:

- Florida beaches are open.
- Estimated release rate of oil from Deepwater Horizon at 35,000 to 60,000 barrels per day. Optimization of the dual recovery system (LMRP Cap and Q4000) continues; total oil recovered approximately 24,575 barrels on 7/07/10.
- This event has been designated a Spill of National Significance.
- Unified Area Command continues with a comprehensive oil well intervention and spill response planning following the April 22 sinking of the Transocean Deepwater Horizon drilling rig 130 miles southeast of New Orleans.
- More than 47,000 personnel are working the on and offshore response.
- Oil-water mix recovered: nearly 28.65 million gallons
- Response vessels available: more than 6,680
- Response aircraft available: 112
- Dispersant: more than 1.74 million gallons deployed
- There is no planned use of dispersants in Florida waters.

Florida Specific:

- Oil Impact Notice have been posted to include: Escambia County, all Gulf side beaches; Walton County, all Gulf beaches, Okaloosa County, Brackin Wayside Park, Henderson Park Beach, and James Lee Park.
- Tar balls, tar patties and sheen are reported in Northwest Florida, though fewer impacts have been observed due to westward-moving winds and ocean currents.
- Pensacola Pass as well as Perdido Pass will continue to be closed with the tide to reduce the amount of oil from entering inland waters. These waterways are manned to allow access to necessary vessel traffic during low tide.
- Oil Containment Boom (in feet) total: 723,461 deployed in Florida.
 - Tier 1 & Tier 2: 438,000 / Tier 3: 285,461
- In accordance with established plans, protective booming, staging, and boom maintenance is being conducted along the coast from Escambia to Franklin.
- 255 vessels are deployed in Florida for the Vessels of Opportunity program.
- 1,471 Qualified Community Responders are actively working in the Florida Panhandle.
- Federal Fishery closure, west of Cape San Blas to state line. (see NOAA FB10-060).
- According to the NOAA oil plume model, the oil plume is 71 miles from Pensacola, 129 miles from Panama City and 311 miles from St. Petersburg. NOAA trajectory forecasts show portions of the oil plume slowly expanding back to the east through Saturday, but no direct coastal impacts to beaches are forecast.
- In addition to $100,000 for Volunteer Florida to maintain a volunteer registration database, BP has issued over $75 million in grants to Florida for booming, a national tourism advertising campaign, and the state's preparedness and response efforts. An additional $500,000 has been issued by BP to fund two innovative technology solutions for Okaloosa County.
- BP claims in Florida total 26,953 with approximately $27,130,311.49 paid.
